

Impact of Parental Mental Health on the Family

Who should attend?

Adult and Child & Family practitioners undertaking direct work with children and families with children.

Learning aims

Parental Mental Health problems has often a feature of local and national serious case review. Lack of awareness of the issue may lead practitioners not fully understanding the impact on parenting capacity. This session aims to give an increased understanding of the relationship between parental mental health problems and child safeguarding and child protection.

Learning Objectives

- Improve knowledge of common mental disorders
- Introduce a systemic practice model for working with parental mental health & its impact on the parent child relationship
- Reflect on attitudes and the impact this has on seeking and providing support
- Learn from Serious Case Reviews
- Develop confidence & resource knowledge to enable practitioners to work with parents & multi agency partners.
